GOLD RUSH ON IN NORTHERN CANADA

Use Planes to Take Prospectors Into Field.

Calgary.-A radium "rush"-and by strplane, too—Is on in northern Canada it is something new in mining adventure. The old-time gold "rush" has passed into history for the time being. at least. Discovery of $10,000,000 worth of radium has produced a novelty in mine prospecting. But there is a gold "rush" also on on in British Columbia, hundreds of men going out into the gold districts. It has been predicted that 10,000 will go out from Vancouver alone.

Two hundred grams of the preclous radium—quoted now at 850,000 a gram -are already in prospect at Great Bear lake, judging from calculations made during preliminary surveys, nccording to Dr. A. E. Comeron, professor of mining at University of Alheria, This is one-third of that alrendy produced in the whole world. Corraled by Syndicate.

Syndicating operations have corraled all the territory in which the pitchblende is supposed to lie—as they have the known goldfields—so that a "rush" of prospectors generally would not net them anything. However, there has been just as much pleturesque activity among a smaller number of persons in the Far North to obtain the precious

There is a possibility, in view of the extreme importance of radium to the world, that the government may take over the deposits. But just now the chief problem is how to get it outthere being no rollway and the trall being too long and hard for carriage otherwise than by pirciane. And the enpacity of nirple or to carry heavy area is very limited

The deposits are at La Bine Point Great Bear lake, Hugh A, Spence, mineral technologist of the Dominion department of mines at Ottawa, has examined the deports and pronounced them very valuable. Discovery was made in the spring of 1930 by Gilbert La Bine and considerable work has been done in opening.

At present values, ore could easils meet the cost of shipment to rall, which is $400 a ton. Improved transportation facilities, however, will have to be provided if serious production is to be obtained. A small gasoline bont drawing a ten-ton scow is the hest available method of transportation ncross Great Bear lake (and via the Great Bear river) to Norman, on the Mackenzie river waterway, and ore has to be handled several times. Rallhend is at Waterways, Alberta.

Rich Radium Supply.

An estimate of radium in prospect, which was based on calculations by Spence, takes it for granted that 2000 tons of pitchblend are obtainable, this which gives 130 milligrams of radium

In the vicinity of Fort Norman discovery wells, considerable attraction | exists for exploration. The area is a large one over which districts are seattered in which structure closures and petroliferous strata may reasonably be expected.

Planes making frequent trips have taken in prospectors to stake ground. and the two commercial plane services have reported them elves able to handle only a small part of the traffic offered to them. Ground south and contee, in Winthrop. east of La Blue Point has already been staking has been principally in the hope of finding silver.

The silver occurs as leaves and films throughout the massive pitchblende, also as a strong velo up to 30 inches wide of carbonates and wire silver in contact with the pitchblende fallver constituting 40 to 50 per cent of the rein matter) and as leaves and films on Joints and erneks in a 10 to 15foot sheared band on the footwall side than 1,000 claims have been staked, according to intest advices.

ISS SELINA BRIGGS lived on M Cape Cod. To be precise in Sandport. The house she lived in was the real thing in early Colonial architecture-it had a "lean-to," The famlly was small, constelling only of herself and her orphaned niece. Henrietta. Miss Selina had squandered her savings in giving Ettn an education, even sending her through Wellesley.

And now Henrietta was twenty-two, proficient in all accomplishments but conversant with no calling that would bring in money. She fuld a thousand plans for becoming a wage rner; but her anot "put her foot down" on every one of them. Etta fretted out what could she 407 She would to forsake Selina, even if ship could and employment somewhere else-which was extremely doubtful.

The Mystle Clan was the product of the cunning brain of John Murrell, known ns "the great western land pirate" and "the wickedest man in American history" who "conducted the most fearful schemes of rapine and murder from New Orleans up to Cincinnati."

Not only were travelers robbed and murdered, but slaves were stolen, sold. stolen from their new owners, and then murdered to prevent their betrusing the robbers. The uprising was to take place on Christmes day, 1865 Starting out presumably on a trip to carry the final instructions to the members of the gang scattered all over the South, Stewart took with him two trusted men and cropt upon Murrell's hiding place in Arbansas across the river from Memphis early one morning. The first intimation the robber lender had of the downfall of his scheme was when he looked into the mouth of a pistol, behind which he saw the stern face of "Hues."

Although the arrest was easy, convicting Murrell was more difficult. Sheriffs, magistrates and other officers of the law, either members of the clanthemselves or intimidated by Murrell's friends, refused to net. So Stewart marched Murrell to Jall in Memphis bluself and when members of the Mair tuilled to resent their leader, Elevart facel the mon and told them that If a more was made to rescue Murrell he would shoot him dead. Murrell plended for bis life and the mob dissolved. Finally Stewart sucreeded in bringing the land pirate to trial, had him convicted and sentenced in ten years in a Tennessee prison. He came out a broken man to find bis elan disorganized. Stewart was repeatedly threatened by the outlaws and cereral attempts were made on his life. UTONOE MORRIS, young, wellborn, well-bred, prettily blond and stremely conventional, sat on a tuft f Buffalo grass gazing over the broad fontana plains. She was awaiting he coming of Eric Willoughby, a oung ranchman of English descent, the was the only man in the world the dared to shorten her distinguished name to Nora. This she knew to be impossible grause she was the only and adoredchild of wealthy parents who beleved that no man was quite good

Presently she beheld him approaching at a gallop on his superb horse, the pick of the range.

Reaching her side, he threw himself off the horse, leaving him to graze, and sented himself on the ground near her. Without preliminaries, as if he were continuing a line of thought, he said, "Marriage seems to me the grave of freedom."

"So is everything in life if one allows It to be," replied Autonoe, dogmatically. "We are chained to our-"I have been interested in you ever

"A thoroughly Western point of view!" murmured Autonoe, haughtily. "Since you came," he continued, relentlessly, "I have seen that he was dead right."

At the smack of his words, his manner of uttering them, Autonoe felt the lizard skin crack from top to bottom. "I cannot understand," she remarked plaintively, "why a man when he proposes, should make himself so dis-

"I am not proposing to you," asserted Eric, sharply. "Certainly you are. And the answer is (very plumply) no."

He smiled acridly. "At lease you are alive," he said, "and I sometimes have doubted that, I do not wish to hurt your vanity, but my thoughts at present are occupied by a very different type of woman. A Mexican, a dancer in a care, superb-

Baldur the Beautiful. The horse's feet once more on earth, Eric said florcely, with a swift glance at Autonoe's ascless little hands:

"A ranchman's wife must be up at dawn and but in a fourteen hour day. She must scrub, cook, launder her man's clothes, mend them, feed the dogs and serve every stranger that hallos the house."

Then, with a lift of the rein and a touch of the spur, he sent Pollmino forward in a swift gallop.

Autonoe, turning her back upon him, returned to the house to find her Uncle Johnnie. A middle-nged, prosperous ranchman, with peculiarly standy eyes, he was resting from labor on the wide plazza in a comfortable chair and watching a distant scene. One of his men in a flivver, founding up straying cattle, and another flying overhead in a small airplane, surveying fences. His Mexican wife, not older than he but deplorably wrinkled, was walting on him slavishly. Sinking into a chair beside him, Autonoe said soberly: "Uncle Johnnie, I want Aunty Peplin to teach me to cook, and scrub, and feed the dogs and-and-is Her uncle looked at her with per-the decision with her. And presently she was smiling at her contradictory self. For in her heart of hearts she know that sooner of later, when he had won the fight over himself, Erle would come back to her hearing the good gift. Meanwhile, she must make herself worthy of it and prepare for the time when she should be not Autonon but Nora.

Depredations of Birds

Offset by Good Work The fickleness among allied nations and their shifting from one side to another in different wars has a counterpart in the course conducted by some of man's allies in the war on insect pests. The birds, for instance, sometimes do tremendous damage to crops through the damage to young shoots arst coming through the ground and to the entire crop through the eating of seed. Fruit trees and berry bushes also suffer from the depredations of birds.

In spite of the damage they do, however, the birds as a usual thing are to be found on the side of man when It comes to the war with insects. It has been noted by experts studying the insect problem that any unusual outbreak of pests invariably finds the birds flocking to the section where the outbreak has occurred. Every insect seems to have an overwhelming number of enemies among the birds. The gypsy moth, for instance, is enten by 46 different types of birds. The cotton boll weevil is attacked by 66, the army worm by 43, the leaf hoppers by 175, the potato beetle by 34 and the wireworm by 205. The birds, when they feed on the insects, really set themselves down to serious enting. One killdeer, shot and examined for research purposes, had 383 alfalfa weevils in its stomech while a blacklift was found to have 412. Such a capacity for insects makes the hirds welcome allies when the insect outbreaks are on, no matter low much they may be opposed to the best interests of man when they are carrying on their own depredat ing activities.-Washington Star.

Reference to "Auroch"

in Biblical Writings? In all Scriptural references the word translated unicorus is the Hebrew "reem," which modern science declares to be best understood by making it refer to the "nuroch" or wild ox, which did formerly live on the east side of Jordan, and elsewhere. even in east Europe, according to many authorities.

This was an exceedingly powerful, active and at times, dangerous wild beast, of great size, with long power ful horns. It is interesting to note that the reem is not known to, or at least is not mentioned by any Biblical writer after the time of Isalah, and that this agrees with the dictum of archeologists founded on discoveries among the monumental records of past ages. that the aurochs became extinct in Assyria about the year 1000 B. C.

The nuroch, it is now considered. may be held to be the very animal understood by the sacred writers to hear the name reem. That they used the name of the mythical unicorn in translating it may be set down to the understanding of the age in which our translation of the Bible was made, and not with any intention of perpetuating the legend of the one-horned creature the inspired Scriptures.

History of Challe In ocean waters are tiny animals with shells so small that a person can hardly see them without the help of a microscope. Study of chall: in chalk cliffs has proved that the chalk is made up chiefly of the shells of tiny | animals like those found in the sea today. On investigation we find milllons-even billions-of these tiny animals living and dying in the ocean waters, each one leaving his shell behind. In a piece of chalk two inches long, it is estimated that there are the shells of more than 100,000 of these tiny animals. Chalk is a form of soft ilmestone. Other kinds of limestone were made in much the corners are adorned with finely evesame way; but chalk is the kind cuted shrines—the works of old m swhich will leave white marks on a lers. The cloud often pours over the steep slope of the mountain, like a mighty cataract, and is re-dissolved as the wind is warmed by compression in descending. The effect produced by this roll-

Old Tigers, Unable to

Hunt, Turn Man-Eaters In one year, more than 1,500 people were killed by tigers in British India and the average unnual mortality from this cause has not been much below this figure. In most cases the tigers responsible for these deaths are maneaters, it being an established fact that is an unusual thing for an ordinary tiger, no matter how feroclous a specimen, to attack a man,

Old age, strangely enough, is responsible for the development of the man-eating instinct. A tiger that is getting on in years is faced by a serious problem. His teeth are bad, a thousand fights have left him battered and bruised, he is worn out. He no longer has the strength nor the ngillty to keep his stomach filled through the normal process of killing game in the jungle. He has to keep alive. Anything will do, even a man. A tiger, crazed by this desire, will enter a village at night, drag a native out of bed, and earry him off into the jungle.

Italian Crime Exhibit

The famous "black museum" of Scotland Yard, that grim repository of lethal weapons and devices and of other relics of crime, has a rival. A similar chamber of police interest has been opened in the new prison in Rome, the exhibits gathered together ranging from modern counterfelts of old Roman coins—to be palmed off on tourists as antiquities—back through they "smoke like a chimney," Illustrative of their love of the serence weed is the will of old Heer van Klass of Rotterdam. He died at ninety-eight years with his pipe in his mouth, having smoked nearly five ounces of tobacco a day. Every smoker who went to his funeral received ten pounds of tobacco and two pipes, and a package of tobacco is sent each year on his anniversary to the poor who attended. All the mourners smoked and shook out the ushes of their pipes on the coffin which was lined with the wood of his old Havana eigar boxes and matches, for, as he added, "One never knows what may happen."

Jean, the little girl heing thus in structed, thought the teacher deserred encouragement, so she blushed at the thought of her efforts and burst out: "You know, teacher, I think you're faighty good on taste."

Timely Thought

There are no profit and loss col umus in the ledger of generosity. He who gives in the expectation of getting something in return is not a giver, but a merchant. He who gives with no such expectation, merely to plant a seed where it may or may not grow; to start a series of kindly relationships which may or may not continue to infinity, is in the highest sease a sportsman. And there is no sport on earth that compares with this,-floston Transcript.

SMOKY MOUNTAINS PLAN PASSION PLAY

Would Preserve Ancient Music and Folklore.

Boone, N. C .- Ballads, native customs, culture and folklore of the great Smoky mountains may form the basis upon which a great "Passion Play," patterned somewhat after that of Oberammergan, will the built. The iden, conceived by Prof. I. G.

Greer of the Appalachian State Teachers' college here, is as yet only an idea, but its enthusiastic reception leads the professor to hope that he may see it executed fully within the next decade.

Coming of modern days to the mountains, with good roads, accred-Ited schools and radios, has brought fear that the old ballads handed down for generations by mountaineers might be lost. Mountain youth is singing jazz instead of the songs its father

The ballads go back to early English times; no one knows how far. Generations have not only preserved. but have embellished and lengthened them. The greater part of them are sorrowful, rythmic, mournful echoes of the sternness of the mountaineer's life, as it was that of medieval peoples.

Singers taking part would be natives, Greer said, for trained voices cannot interpret the simple songs. It is explained, that ballads differ from folk songs in that they are impersonal and record the experiences of others, while the folk song records the joys of tribulations of the singer.

Professor Greer's idea visions a sort of amphitheater in a mountain setting where these ballads would not only be sung, but their long, droning stories would be noted out. National park service officials have expressed favor for Greer's idea of creating a passion play of the mountains, and have promised support. Musicians in many parts of the country have expressed interest. Other moves to preserve this quaint music have been made by Lamar Stringfield, of the University of North Carolina faculty, who is now engaged in writing an opera of the mountains; Bascombe Lamar Lunnsford, an Asheville (N. C.) attorney, who annually stages mountain dances in connection with the Rhododendron festival there, and others.

The racketeers presented them selves to Debusk and Reed as "eye specialists" and visited the men in their homes to give them treatments. Debusk sald that, "under a spell," he withdrew $000 from the bank to pay the men. Reed contributed $200, Doctors here said the men appar ently had been hypnotized.

Stops Headache in Five Minutes

A Wonderful Formula Ends Achee

Something Better and Safer Thousands of men and women are now stopping throbbing, sick, dizzy, splitting headaches, as well as the excruciating pains of rheumatism, neuritis, toothache, etc. with a marvelous new formula that is said to be far superior to anything heretofore used.

It contains no aspirin, acetanilid, etc. and is absolutely safe and harmless. This remarkable formula, called A-VOL, is being prescribed by thousands of doctors, dentists and welfare nurses because of the quick, efficient way it relieves all types of aches and pains without depressing the heart, or causing any other harmful atfects. A-Vol quickly stops the most severe pain, leaving the patient re-freshed and feeling fine. Especially effective in women's period pains. this is truly a remarkable formula, just step into your nearest drug store and pet a package of A-VOL for a few cents. Take a couple of tablets right there. If your pain is not gone in five minutes, the clerk will return your money,

What is Good Will?

It is that intangible something that draws a customer to a certain store. Other places may be as good but a merchant's advertising creates a welcome for the new visitor—tells the story of new offerings to the old customers. The feeling thus created is good will.

It is the thing every manufacturer and distributor asks for. This feeling is created by advertising-constant, liberal, persistent advertising. Think over the lines of merchandise your ask for at your dealers. You may or may not have tested and tried the others, but you have a feeling that the one you are calling for is better. The reason is that its good points have been set forth in the manufacturer's or dealer's advertising.

Every well written advertisement a merchant runs in this paper creates good will for his store, the merchandise he sells, and the service he has to offer.

Land-Locked Nations

There are 15 nations which have no scaroast. They are landlocked people. They become wholly insular in their thinking and living. They have not before them that boundless, living, restless, ever-changing immensity, symbolized by the sea, to touch their souls with the last of adventure, the lure of the unknown, the magle of allen shores.

Trees and Lightning There is a tradition among woodsmen that It is dancerous to seek shelter under certain varieties of trees during thunderstorms. Now the United States forest service reports that t is apparently true that some kind of trees are struck by lightning more frequently than others. A study will to made to determine what trees are most likely to attract electricity. The question has a practical side because in some regions in the Far West lightning is the principal cause of forest fires World's Work.

Parallel Pipes "Human"

The rox humana pipes in a pipe of gan differ from the regular pipes in that tan complete sets are required in order to produce the sound which simulates the human voice. These pipes are arranged in pairs side by side, time is a tride over pitch and one a tride under. The vibration of the two at the same time gives the rounder, foller hate of the human toles rather than the clear, sharp tone of the regular pipes.

FRED H. ROBERTSON

Fred H. Robertson died about 10.30 Friday evening at the Rumford Community Hospital, where he had been seriously ill for the past seven weeks. He was born at West Paris, Nov. 14, 1893, the son of Edward N. and Cora Wilson. Buck Robertson. He was educated in the Bethel schools and Deering High School, Portland.

Mr. Robertson married Miss Elsie Cook of Waterbury, Conn., and one daughter, Carol, was born to them. He was a member of the Masons and the American Legion. He enlisted in the Ordnance Corps soon after the United States entered the World War and served at Fort Slocum, N. C., Aberdeen Proving Grounds and Saybrook Proving Grounds.

He was manager of a Gulf wholesale distributing plant in New York until about a year ago when he was forced to give up work because of ill health. He then came to Bethel and has since been connected with the Robertson Service Station on Railroad Street. With a smile for everybody, his genial manner won for him a host of friends. He will be greatly missed in the com-
